CHINA APOLOGIZES.

Ultimatum of the British Government is Compelled With.

TIENTSIN, Nov. 14.—The officials of the Chinese government this morning made the apologies demanded by the British government officials for the outrage committed by Chinese soldiers on board the British steamship Chang in August last.

The Chang King was saluted by the guns of the Taku forts and the required apology was made to the British minister.

Fred Carey, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Carey, died at 1:30 o'clock this morning at the family residence on Kansas avenue, near Saywell street. The child was only six months old and had been taken Monday evening with membranous croup which rapidly developed into a case of pneumonia. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been announced.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of the 34th N. Y. Cavalry and of the 5th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he says as follows:

"Several of our old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills. All of them give splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and come up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."

Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.

These remedies are sold by all druggists, as a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opium nor dangerous drugs.

THE POLK STREET SCHOOL.

Sanitary Improvements Made and the Condition Now First-Class.

A few weeks ago the city board of health found the Polk street school in very bad sanitary condition. Various improvements were shown to be necessary. These changes have been made. City Physician J. B. Hibben today makes the following statement, which is confirmed by Dr. L. H. Munn, also of the city board, who made the inspection with him:

"The Polk street school building is now under fumigation and will be for thirty-six hours, school having been closed today (Wednesday) for the purpose, so there will be no danger of disease being communicated. The children can then safely return to school, as far as the sanitary condition of the building itself is concerned."

"A thorough and careful examination has been made of the sanitary condition of this school, and the sanitary condition is now perfect. The water closets are flushed each day with twenty-four barrels of water. The grounds and interior of the building are clean and neat. The recent cases of diphtheria are sporadic cases, and were not wholly due to any unhealthy condition of the school house or grounds."

"There are now not exceeding two, and possibly only one, case of diphtheria in the city—as one of the alleged cases may prove to be something else. In only one of these cases was the subject a pupil of the school."

SWEETLY — LOVINGLY

Must the Women Continue to Work for Suffrage.

SAYS MRS. FOSTER TO THE LADIES

At the Meeting at the Copeland Hotel Parlor—Political Leaders Talk to the Women.

Yesterday afternoon as the hour drew nigh, that had been designated by Mrs. J. Ellen Foster when the Republican women in Topeka should meet her in the Copeland hotel parlors, an early comer might have discovered that one or two women had dropped in, who were not particularly interested in the meeting or its objects and aims, one or two even, who actually had never seen Mrs. Foster. But these were only one or two at most, and the majority of the sixty or seventy women gathered there were members of the women's Republican association, and came to rejoice together over the victory, as well as to do honor to their national president.

Mrs. Minnie D. Morgan, the state president of the association, was there, one of the most enthusiastic Republican women in the state, hopeful and sanguine, delighted with the good work already done by the association and confident of the great good yet to be accomplished by it. Cottonwood Falls, Mrs. Morgan's home, also has the honor of being the home of the first woman's Republican association in the state.

Mrs. L. C. Stine, the state organizer, was there, ready to take the names of any possible adherents to the cause.

Mrs. S. A. Thurston, the president of the local association was present; Mrs. Florence Covert, formerly state organizer, Mrs. J. Q. Royce of Phillips county, glad to say that her county gave 250 majority for the suffrage amendment.

Then there were visitors from different places and nearly all the members of the local association.

As Mrs. Foster entered the room, one of the women before mentioned, who had never seen her, said in an undertone to her companion: "Is that dear, motherly looking woman Mrs. Foster? Well I never imagined she looked like that. Why she wears a bonnet! And what a dear little face that is in her front hair, and her hands look just like mother hands; as if their touch might be a cure." After all my prejudice against it, there seems to be some very intelligent, some very good women interested in politics," and she looked around over the crowd with a long breath that was very like a sigh.

Perhaps she was disappointed that there was no vestige of the unfeminine about Mrs. Foster or her following. How easy does prejudice make partisans of us all.

Mrs. Foster talked first in that easy conversational style of hers that takes in fifty or a hundred listeners and sounds as if it were addressed to but one. She said she was glad of the opportunity to meet the ladies and rejoice over the grand victory just achieved.

"While there may be a minor tone of sadness in the pangs of gladness sung by the Republican women of Kansas, when they think of their beloved amendment going down, they remember that they are Republicans first and suffragists afterwards."

Among other things Mrs. Foster said was: "Against my own convictions, I asked the Republican convention to endorse the amendment; my own judgment has always been to the effect that it is unsafe for a party to endorse a movement before the will of the people as regards that movement has been made known. The cause of suffrage has been hurt by its seeming defenders and promoters; I am opposed to strengthening the forces of unrighteousness that righteousness may triumph; no cause can be advanced by having for its advocates women who talk to and about each other after the fashion of fishermen." The applause here was loud and long.

Mrs. Minnie Morgan spoke a few minutes. Mrs. L. C. Stine told how the cause had prospered, and illustrated her remarks by telling of the wonderful growth of associations that had been organized all over the state under various difficulties. Mrs. S. A. Thurston, when called on to speak, said she had a reputation for just one thing: knowing when to keep still; but she followed this assertion by a few well-timed remarks that showed she also knew when to talk and what to say. As the meeting progressed the hall outside filled up with men, and from their ranks several prominent Republicans came in and addressed a few words to the ladies.

Among these were Mr. Cy. Leland. Mr. Leland said: "I am glad to know you have helped the Republican party and hope to see the time when you will be able to help yourselves."

J. L. Bristow, secretary of the state central committee, complimented the women upon the excellent work done by the Republican women of the state and said that he felt sure the result had justified their organization, inasmuch as the returns had shown a greater gain wherever there had been a woman's Republican club.

Governor-elect Morrill was brought in and said: "I hope I shall be able to so administer the affairs of the state as to meet the approbation of the women of Kansas; this is my highest ambition."

Bernard Kelly then spoke particularly of the relations of women's work to the enforcement of the prohibitory law, and said: "I beg the ladies to ask for the better enforcement of the existing prohibitory law rather than for any new legislation along that subject."

Mrs. Foster said in introducing her Attorney General Bradford, "my and your life long friend."

Mr. Bradford said: "I have had the pleasant privilege of having done much work with Mrs. Foster in the temperance cause."

"In my opinion the Republican party has today a greater responsibility resting upon it than ever before. During these troublesome times we have taught the people how to adversely criticize the error in other administrations and they are now looking to us for the reason. It is therefore highly important that we should give a better administration than ever before, and a higher statesmanship is required than ever since the war. I have listened with pleasure to the remarks of the ladies and I wish to tell them that my reason for doing less along the line of temperance, during this campaign, than I ever did before was because I hoped suffrage would carry and suffrage means prohibition. I believe suffrage will surely come—some time, and in it alone lies our only hope for absolute prohibition."

Mrs. Foster advised her co-workers "not to ask over the result of the election; not to ask for a resubmission of the suffrage question too soon, as only harm could result from such a course; to stand as a unit against the resubmission of prohibition, and to crowd this question; sweetly, lovingly, but crowd it, at any cost."

She asked them to remember that a great cause has sometimes to wait for a small cause as the door by which it may enter.

When one of the ladies said that this thought suggested to her that the women of Kansas were not yet ready for suffrage, Mrs. Foster replied: "Be that as it may, I am ready to trust you, any one or all of you, now, today."

She suggested that the ladies try to get as many men as possible interested in the suffrage question. Mrs. Foster said: "The term 'Woman's Rights' should be swallowed up by the broader definition of woman's duty. Women should be compelled to pay their vote for the good of the state just as taxes must be paid, and it will grow to be considered a moral obligation to do so, so soon as women are informed on the subject, and not before, as without knowledge there can be no question of moral obligation."

Mrs. Foster urged the ladies particularly to do their duty at municipal elections, though she submitted that from what she could learn, they seemed to have been as faithful as the men of the party.

She left today at 2:40, for Chicago, and will rejoice with her colleagues there over their signal victory. Thence she goes to Geneseo, Ill., to visit her son, and from there to New York, to solicitate the Anti-Tammany league and Dr. Parkhurst. Miss Boswell, the treasurer of the national association, has been acting with Dr. Parkhurst.

From New York Mrs. Foster will go home to Washington, where she will spend the winter.

MADE A HUNDRED SPEECHES.

What One of the Republican Women Has to Say.

Mrs. T. J. Smith of McPherson, one of the ablest campaigners in the state, is at the Copeland. She has made over a hundred speeches for the success of the Republican party during the past two years. Speaking of the Republican victory she said: "There never was a campaign planned with better generalship and carried out with greater consistency and determination."

"Chairman Leland, J. M. Simpson and our able committee took the right line to redeem our beloved state. The weapons Chairman Leland advised us to use during the campaign were the very best that could be used before a loyal and intelligent class of people. Those weapons were, loyalty to home, loyalty to every law in our state and federal statutes, and loyalty to truth and justice. These were the weapons used by myself and all the Republican speakers.

"The Populists made great pledges of reform and the people put them on trial and they made a ridiculous failure, we saw, their work was on the wrong line. The vote shows the people are loyal and want good government."

In speaking of the amendment Mrs. Smith said: "The women who had charge of the suffrage campaign are more to blame for its defeat than any one else, their work was on the wrong line. Instead of working to have it in the Populist platform they should have said 'No, friends, we want to run a non-partisan campaign.' I did not speak for the amendment after there were so many political blunders made. I knew it was, their work was on the wrong line, and that as long as the Republican party is in power the women will have no cause to complain. The Republican party is the only party that has ever given women any political and industrial liberty."

WOMEN'S CHARITY WORK.

Over a Hundred New Garments Made for the Poor.

There is a wide-awake little band of ladies in the Clover hill neighborhood, four miles south of Topeka, who have been engaged since April in systematic charitable work. On Sunday last they conducted a "Harvest Home" service at their school house, about seventy being present. The musical and literary program equalled anything of the kind attempted heretofore. A report of the summer's work showed that 112 new garments had been given to the destitute, mostly to Mrs. Thorpe's charges. The ladies had invited Mrs. Thorpe to talk awhile on the charity work, and a collection was taken amounting to $4. This the ladies will invest in suitable material and make garments for the needy.

Mrs. A. B. Smith is president and Mrs. Strawn secretary.

Mrs. Thorpe reckoned the 112 garments afforded at least 1,000 day's comfort to the poor.

THINGS HEARD AND OVERHEARD.

Facts and Fancies Jotted Down in the Daily Notebook.

It would take a mathematician in whose head the wheels would click even beyond Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes' expectation to calculate the number of hands shaken in Topeka in the last twenty-four hours.

A Chicago woman visiting in town, calculates from 30 to 60 minutes in making an appointment, to make up the time lost in crossing the streets.

It is said that a Topeka girl has a Trilby fold. Whether she has two of them or not depends on whether she will have to have it photographed before many people will believe she has one.

Last evening ex-Governor Geo. T. Anthony said to Mrs. Anthony, "I am sure you were not in vogue when we were elected governor, Mattie." She responded, "Neither were Populists, or there would have been some equally good way of rejoicing over their defeat."

ARMENIANS MASSACRED.

Six Thousand Said to Have Been Killed by the Turks.

SOPHIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 14.—The report received by the London Daily News from Constantinople on November 12, that three thousand Armenians, including women and children, had been massacred in the Sassoun region near Mosul, Turkish Armenia, during a recent attack by Kurds, is seemingly confirmed by a story which has reached Yarna that a force of Bashi Bussouks raided a number of Armenian villages and killed and wounded 6,000 persons.

The Daily News despatch referred to said that the Kurds massacred 34,000 Armenians and destroyed 25 villages.

If a Grocer Tells YOU or advertises that his canned fruits are all of the 'crop of '94 you may know he is a chump—or thinks you are. For several reasons: First, all good fruit canned in good syrup is better the second year than the first, just like old wine. Any honest grocer who knows his business will tell you so if you don't already know it.

Secondly, last year's fruit the entire country over was much superior to fruit grown in '94.

Thirdly, you all know no groceryman sold all his last year's canned goods before this year's crop came in.

We are selling a high grade of canned goods at actual cost, because we are trying to get out of business.
